

COURIER-POST

South Jersey's Newspaper

COURIER-POST Tuesday, August 26, 2008

PEOPLE Gold wins award for second time

The New Jersey State Bar Association has named attorney Jeffrey Evan Gold as New Jersey Municipal Court Practitioner of the Year, 2007-08.

GOLD

This is an award given to a judge, prosecutor or defense lawyer who has done the most to advance municipal court practice in New Jersey during the year.

Gold is the only person to have won this award twice, having won it in 2004.

The new award recognizes Gold for his pro bono efforts in the landmark State v. Chun case.

Gold's firm, the Law Offices of Gold & Associates, PC, has offices in Cherry Hill and Mount Holly.

He is a 1981 graduate of Rutgers Law School-Camden and 1978 graduate of Rutgers College-New Brunswick.